

2012 Forecast. November 29, 2011. Will Berlinghof Interpreter. Joan Mills, questioner and energizer. The countdown and the Law of Love have been given.

That this Awareness is available at this time for the purpose of offering the 2012 forecast. That this Awareness would wish to start by announcing that this will be, of course and indeed, the last forecast for the next year by this Awareness before that event which is the Ascension event. That this last forecast is not the last forecast, in the sense that there will be a 2013, a 2014, a 2015 etc. etc. but it is the last time before the shift in consciousness occurs, before the shift of Mother Earth occurs that is known as the Ascension event.

That this Awareness at this time wishes to go over some of the possibilities that may occur over the year 2012 up to that point of Ascension on December 21, 2012. That It does however, before It goes over possibilities, wish to state that in this time period, this last year of time before Ascension, this end time, that many events can occur that will be important either in the collective sense or in the personal sense. That forecasting events is, of course, focusing only on one timeline and this Awareness will try, in a manner of speaking, to present predictions of that which would be the most commonly experienced timeline by a majority of individuals. But It does wish all to remember in these end times, this year out of phase, this year of void; that one needs to take greater and greater responsibility for that which they themselves are creating because of the beliefs that they are tied into, because of the reality they share with others that they indeed assume to be reality.

That this year represents a year for many to step into their own power, to actively create that reality that will work for them the best. That for many there may not be an experiencing of the very events that this Awareness will present in a moment, because they have effectively chosen a timeline that may avoid much of the chaos that will be present for many others. It does not mean that this Awareness was wrong in its predictions, it simply means that those who do not experience those major events of upheaval have been successful already in creating a new time track or line of reality that allows them to circumvent the more serious events that could well occur in 2012. That they may indeed even slide into Ascension, not experiencing anything of great significance in their minds.

But this again does not mean that they did not ascend, it simply means that they were already very successful in creating the new reality, and to go on creating this new reality based on the belief that all will be fine, that the new truth of that which is planet A, that which is the planet of Ascension, is that which they are already lined up with and tuned into. Many are those who believe Ascension will be a leaving of the planet behind they once knew as they jump into a different reality of the spiritual kind. Some indeed will experience this, especially those who have been working toward introducing and experiencing and living their Light, their higher truth, their conceptions of their higher multidimensional being.

But for many the experience will be more akin to simply starting a new day and perceiving as before, but then starting to notice that it is indeed not as before, that many are the changes that have occurred, many are the changes that will continue to occur as those who find themselves on this seemingly unaltered path will discover. That therefore this Awareness does stipulate that its forecast for 2012 will be only that which the majority may find themselves experiencing but does not indicate that it is the realities that all will experience. Therefore, even though this Awareness presents events that could unfold in 2012, others may experience entirely different events and the unfolding of those events.

Please bear this in mind, for the times have already changed and are continuing to change. That many have already stepped into the new realities and are not even aware that they have already done so. That this is simply another understanding of the processes that are involved towards Ascension, that are complex indeed. Also, this Awareness wishes to mention that as it stated last year already, events will be occurring so quickly and new unexpected situations arising that will not be within the forecast of 2012 that this Awareness is presenting in this timeframe approximately 12-1/2 months before 2012, December 21.

That these events as they are occurring will be dealt with by this Awareness in those red alerts that this Awareness will issue when certain energetic events occur. Thus, the forecast is but a broad overview and that the energies of this timeframe will necessitate that this Awareness often addresses issues as they are about to occur or even as they are occurring. Thus it is that this Awareness is saying that there may indeed be other forecasts throughout the year, other updates to the events that are unfolding, as they unfold. This will prepare individuals more adequately to those events that are unfolding and allow them to better adjust to those events that may be fearful in nature, so that they do not succumb to fear, doubt or panic.

At this time this Awareness wishes to begin its broader overview of 2012. That the first thing that many Americans will be wondering is whether or not there will be a stabilization in their nation in 2012, whether those many who are economically strained and stressed will have an easier go of it, whether or not the jobs will reappear and the country stabilized and the economy put on track. Again, this Awareness does not see this as occurring, but rather sees an escalation in 2012 as the country itself and the world itself start to fracture, as many of those traditions that were once held to be sacrosanct, that would not change, could not change, indeed do change, do come to endings and conclusions.

That to understand this point will allow individuals to understand what is needed in the year ahead is flexibility – the flexibility to go with the situations that are unfolding, be they economic situations, such as the collapse of the economic systems of the world, of the United States of America, or social traditions that no longer are in effect, that seemingly are empty and devoid of the meanings they once had. That as one has this flexibility and one lives in trust that all will be well, that despite the challenges, the upheavals, the difficulties that some may be experiencing, that one simply needs to hang on and to believe in the higher powers of one's own being – that they will come through, especially as one begins to see to a greater degree how they can create their own realities, their own events, their own undertakings to correct situations, to make things better for themselves and their loved ones.

But it will continue to be a year of collapse on the economic front. The to and fro situation of the stock markets around the world and in the United States will continue and it is seen that in January of 2012, towards the latter end, there will be a major upheaval that will seriously contract the economy of the United States of America and indeed the entire world economy. This will be followed up several months later in March, April, May with further collapsing of the economic situations and tighter controls of the world's banks and the banks of the individual nations that are experiencing collapse.

In a way it will be seen that it is the global economy that is collapsing and individual nations will fare better or worse than other nations. Those who are most in debt, such as the United States of America, will fare the worst. Those who are not as deeply involved with the political economic systems and the Powers That Be will fare better. But as they are already not faring well, this often being the case in Third World countries, they will simply seemingly be at the same level, and one observing those nations would not observe much difference, for they already are in bad economic situations. It is those countries that have the most to lose that will be the most profoundly affected, for if you have more to lose, the loss of what you have will indeed feel worse than not losing what you did not already have in the first place.

Bear in mind that what is occurring is the collapse of the reality system of belief that dictates materialism as the highest form of existence, and that as this highest belief of reality breaks apart, this highest belief in physical materialism breaks apart, those who cling to it the strongest are those who would be and will be the most affected. If one looks around one will see that many are in similar situations, and the way forward in these times will be to start coming together with others to help one another to create local economies, to create situations where there is not a reliance on the big powers any longer: the banks, the insurance companies, the stock market, etc. But indeed for those to come together who have things to share, be it food, be it product, objects to trade, material things to share with others, homes, shelters, etc. to open up to others.

It is necessity that will bring many together, for the old way of belief that each must make it on their own, each family an island separate and devoid from others, is the corruption of the beliefs that have been traditional to your nation, the nation of the United States of America, where it began in a collective effort, a communal effort, as those who were the Pilgrims arrived on the shores of this great nation. That they worked with one another and they worked with the Native Americans in the region to survive, and survive they did. It is this pioneer spirit, this Pilgrim mentality, that needs to resurface in this time so that others who have little can share with others, bringing the little they have together to help others, and that collective resource that is created in such a communal effort will be such that all will survive.

It is a matter of survival perhaps for many who are in more extreme conditions, and to collapse because the economic situation has collapsed would indeed be giving into fear and not into the understanding and belief that there can be survival when many come together. That this will be seen around the world in 2012 where countries collapse.

It is seen on the world economic stage, for example, that the countries of Greece, Italy, Spain, Ireland, Portugal will experience severe economic collapse, that this will fracture the European union. And yet in those countries that break away from the European union, that declare bankruptcy of their countries, that the people at local levels will start to cooperate again, will start to come together, will create local industry and local economies, and thus that which is being touted as the destruction of the planet's economic system may simply lead humans to new ways of cooperating, being flexible, being willing to do with less, being able to look at the greater picture and realize survival is still possible, even though that which was the norm, that which was the paradigm of belief of how life should look will collapse. That they, those who can indeed focus in such a manner will indeed survive the economic collapse that will take place in 2012.

In terms of government, that it is seen that the elections of 2012 may still take place but it is not seen that the current President of the United States will survive the election, if he even reaches the election, for it is seen that there may be events that take him out of power or at least do not encourage his running for the Democratic ticket in 2012. It is seen that a new leader will be elected, but it is also seen that this new leader will not be inaugurated in January, for the collapse of the system will also collapse the government, and as the government collapses the old rulers that have been in power and in charge will also be swept away, for they are a corruption of the highest values, they are leaders who are not leading the people, but are servants to the Powers That Be, the corporations and companies that undermined the rights and best interests of the people of America.

That these leaders may all be tried for treason if their crimes were truly exposed and many will be charged and held to account for their crimes, for they are not truly acting in the spirit of the Constitution of the United States of America. They are not there to serve the people who have elected them but are there for their own self interests and self-aggrandizement. That these ones will no longer be tolerated and as the entire system collapses they will mostly be thrown out of power because of the collapse of the government, or in certain cases arrested and held accountable for their crimes. Thus, the collapse of the political system of the United States will be a major event of 2012.

That this collapse is not confined to the United States of America. That many countries around the world will also experience the collapse of their governments, for the people are on the move, many are starting to proclaim the inadequacies of the systems that now exist, the power brokering on behalf of the super wealthy, that which is often referred to, the 1%. That those countries where the leadership breaks apart will again fall to more localized governance, and again local economies, local situations of assisting one another, will become the norm in the year 2012, or at least it will be the beginning of that which will become the norm after that event of Ascension on December 21, 2012.

That indeed the rebellion will continue that this Awareness spoke of for 2011 and the rebellion will become a grassroots movement. That which is the Occupy Wall Street movement which has gone worldwide will continue and will gain more and more support as more and more individuals see the incongruity of the power structures that exist now.

As events unfold, as the deterioration of the political economic situation continues, and those corrupt officials who are in power seek to serve their Masters more obviously, it will in turn bring the masses to the realization, finally, that they have been asleep and been controlled and enslaved even by those ones who claim power. That the occupation movement worldwide will indeed become stronger and stronger, the grassroots movement becoming the wave that sweeps away the corruption of the Powers That Be. This in alignment to the shifting energies of consciousness that will also be occurring during this period of 2012 and then beyond.

That many will completely understand how they have given their powers away willingly, have been duped by those in power to believe the lies that they have been raised on, and it will be a significant upheaval, for it is not simply that they will blame the Powers That Be who have that power and have exerted it over the masses, but that they will truly begin to understand that theirs is the responsibility of assuming their own power first and foremost in their own lives and then in a collective manner that is responsible for the welfare of all.

That those in charge in governments at this time are not there to govern for the people, but indeed to make the lives easier for those who have the highest degree of power. That as the grassroots movements begin to flex their muscles more, as more and more join this grassroots movement, those who in their corruption have denied the people, have worked against their welfare, will be held to account, as this Awareness has said. So therefore, expect 2012 to bring sensational arrests of politicians that in previous times would never have been arrested, for the populace was too much asleep at the time. An awakening in consciousness therefore will be a very prevalent energy and event in the year 2012, and this will lead to sweeping changes.

In terms of the predictions this Awareness will make for weather and geophysical events, that there is seen to be a building up of pressures in the Midwestern United States along that which is the New Madrid fault line and it is seen a probable event that could see a catastrophic result of the New Madrid fault line shifting and creating a rift in the middle of the United States of America. It is also seen that there are geophysical activities on the Western coast as well.

Thus, it could be in 2012, and this Awareness says could be, that there will be a one-two knockout blow for the United States of America in two events of major significance that hit the United States of America. This is an event that is seen as a possibility, but this Awareness would recommend that the majority do not energize this event, but rather see it as not taking place, that the energies are dissipated because people become conscious and start to shift and change. One reason these events could occur is if the people do not start to wake up, refuse to see the unfolding events around them as both the collapse of the old regime and the dawn of the new. And that if they stay in their rigid patterns of behavior, their rigid mindsets, that this rigidity is that which needs to be loosened, even fractured and released, and that this may indeed occur in a geophysical event such as described by this Awareness. This is very much part of the energies that the masses may experience in 2012.

The weather that has been extreme, not only in the United States of America but around the world, will again continue to be erratic and extreme. That this too is part of those energies that are building up for a shift in consciousness and a shift in the reality of what once was and what will be. Indeed, 2012 will be marked by some of the most extreme weather disasters that have ever been experienced, for as the shifting energies become stronger and stronger, moving towards the Ascension, the weather patterns will exemplify them, will mirror them, will become stronger and stronger. In those areas where there was drought in 2011 that there will be even more extreme drought. In areas where there was flooding and tornadoes expect more flooding and tornadoes.

Part of this is due to the manipulation of weather systems by those who possess HAARP technology, and there is a hidden war that is going on that will escalate in 2012, even perhaps breaking out in armed conflict between China and the United States of America. That these conflicts, these situations of war, may bring both countries to the brink of declaring war on each other, but it is not seen that this will happen in 2012. That this type of event may indeed carry on into 2013, 2014, where it will become a reality in the planet B scenarios. Again, this is an event this Awareness does not recommend one focus on or energize.

That many in 2012 will start to awaken to the truth of a new reality dawning, and that the biggest movement of 2012, due to the many events of upheaval and change that will be experienced, is that they will start to see reality much differently than it was conceived before. Thus, the shift in consciousness that is necessary to get many ready for an Ascension event will take place rapidly in 2012, many indeed waking up, as this Awareness has said, many questioning the Powers That Be, the beliefs and paradigms of belief that have so strongly controlled and governed one's life and one's belief system.

Thus, see 2012 as a year of a rebellion of consciousness as well as a rebellion of Spirit. There will also be many miraculous events that start to take place in 2012, and that these miracles will start to make the news more and more, for it will be such a time of despair and upheaval that many will need good news, and the good news will come aplenty, especially as one starts to recognize that there are greater forces playing out in 2012 than one had ever expected.

The contentment with old-time religion will remain very strong in the United States of America as many seek God to help them through the time of crisis. But many will have a crisis of faith, many will see that believing in God has not truly helped them deal with the situations that are befalling them, and many may indeed become very angry at the beliefs and faith that they had held and start to seek the new beliefs that are ready to open up. These new beliefs, of course, are those beliefs this Awareness has so long talked about: the belief in Spirit and one's own spiritual being, the essence of their being, their connection to Spirit and to God.

And that the miraculous events will not only be collective miraculous events, but personal miracles that more and more people will begin to discover. Thus it is that many will start to turn away from television and media and watching the news and believing the lies. Many will start to search out those who have greater comprehension and awareness, those spiritual teachers, those ones who have been the lunatic fringe for so long. That these will be those who are sought out, those who were considered the crazy ones, those who were not paid attention to, were called conspiracy nuts or simply crazy. But the craziness that many have seen in their spiritual pursuits will start to become the sane ones.

At this time it could be considered that the planet is like an insane asylum, and that that which is considered normality is that which is indeed the craziness, the madness, and that those who are in charge of the insane asylum are the maddest of all. That many will start to see this as fundamental to understanding the reality of the planet that they have lived on so long, a planet that is changing before their very eyes, and 2012 will bring to many a realization that they have been living under madness for many, many eons and that it is time to change and to shift. That the events that unfold, that bring new beliefs and understandings, that show new possibilities, are such that they will be strong enough to effect change of beliefs in many around the world.

Unfortunately, the United States of America has some of the strongest and most entrenched beliefs of a traditional nature, and therefore many will fight against the new thoughts, the new understandings, the new paradigms that are introducing themselves; insisting on holding to the old time religion as the way forward. This is simply the way it needs to be for those who are not ready to ascend, who are not ready to change. But there will be seen to be much friction between those who hold traditional religious values, Christian and other, to those who are seeking new spiritual awareness and understanding.

Therefore, 2012 may indeed be a year of conflict between those who hold the old patterns of religious belief and those who seek new ways.

That it is also seen that the extraterrestrial beings who have been participating in mankind's journey will finally make themselves seen and known. First Contact is a strong event, especially in the latter months of 2012 towards the period of Ascension. That there are the Galactic Federation forces that are already in place around the planet and it is also seen the planet Nibiru coming closer to the Earth at the same time.

That the planet Nibiru is the ship of the Anunnaki, of those who are in power at this time, and it is seen that there will be a final confrontation between the Galactic Federation and the Orion/Reptilian factions. It is seen that the Orion/Reptilians are trying very hard to convince humanity that those aliens they have been showing on the television and in the movies, those who are the Galactic Federation, are the evil ones, those who are here to corrupt and destroy the planet, and will try very hard to convince the masses that those beings who are coming, who have shown themselves in First Contact, are not to be trusted. They of course, the Orion/Reptilian faction, will keep themselves hidden. It will be as if they are prodding humanity to battle the Galactic Federation troops and beings who come to help in the times of upheaval, to fight these ones who are here to help, saying they are the evil ones, while they are hiding under the bed and quivering in fear.

That many of their plans to retreat to their underground shelters have collapsed in the last several months, and therefore their plan to be in safety underground while major events occurred on the surface are indeed put off track now, and 2012 will be a hard year of reckoning for many who are in power, many who advocate violence and upheaval and destruction and who would propel humanity into a battle with the Galactic Federation. It is seen their efforts will fail miserably, for the Galactic Federation beings are not those who are here to destroy humanity, but to lead humanity to salvation and this is seen as an event that will begin to unfold after First Contact in the latter part of summer of 2012 into the fall of 2012, approximately four months before the events of the Ascension are to occur. This too will bring many to question the old ways, their old lives, those beliefs and attitudes they had, their understanding of government and those in power and the economics of a materialistic way of life – all will be questioned, all will go into upheaval.

Therefore, 2012 will be the year of upheaval as many, many things indeed change before the eyes of those who have been asleep and are suddenly awoken before the eyes of those who have been seeking but have not found, and before the eyes of those who have known for a time that this is coming. Even they will finally see that it is so and that the changes they have so long prayed for and look towards will indeed finally take place.

At this time this Awareness asks the energizer if there are other areas that she would wish this Awareness to speak to?

Yes indeed. The US was mentioned. There was no reference really to Australia or New Zealand, North Korea... Although China was mentioned, the Asian countries, Canada, the European Union, such as England. Are there any comments on any of those or will they just fall in line with the US?

It is not that they fall in line with the US, but this Awareness did start by saying all nations would be affected, there would be upheaval in all nations, for the collapse of the US and its political economic systems will be like the first domino that leads to a chain reaction event of all the dominoes in the line being toppled. Therefore, all nations will see their governments collapse to one degree or another.

That those this Awareness has called the Third World nations may not seem to suffer as much, for they have so little to lose, but those westernized nations, such as Canada, Australia, the European nations, will experience a much greater collapse and the economic materialistic realities that are so favored at this time will simply cease to be. It is not that economies will cease to be – local economies will start to flourish. There will be no choice but it will be a rough ride in 2012 before local economies fully understand and appreciate what has happened and why there is a need to band together in a way that will assist all to survive.

Countries, ironically, such as Greece and Italy and other European nations which already have local markets and a local black market operation in many of those countries where goods and services are already exchanged under the table, will simply revert more to this form of governance than worrying about the national government and whether or not the nation is bankrupt or whether or not it has a responsibility to pay debt. It is to be remembered that the occurrence of debt, the creation of debt, is one of the greatest ways that the Orion/Reptilians have enslaved humanity, creating the concept of personal debt so that many who are hard-working citizens feel duty bound to pay off their personal debt, whereas the nations themselves ignore such a tactic, do not pay off their debt, and thus are trillions of dollars in debt.

2012 will see an addressing of this matter and that those who are the hard-working individuals who have lived good lives will find that they simply need to look to other ways and perform in other ways to make things happen in their lives. And the way of doing this, as this Awareness said, is to start focusing on the local economy, on doing things for others, exchanging goods and services with others, bartering with others. Many became aware that this was the only way to survive in the 1930s – doctors often performing their services not for cash money but for a chicken that could be roasted for the family meal. That this may indeed be the case in 2012 when the economies collapse and those who have not shifted themselves into another time track where such events simply did not occur experienced the worst case scenarios, and that this is a global event, not simply the events of the United States before all else. The United States of America may be the kingpin, the domino that first falls and falls the greatest, but it is not the only nation in the world that will experience decline and upheaval.

Thank you. You had mentioned time tracks, which is similar to timelines, so would this suggest then that not all timelines will experience this, that there will be some that do not experience this?

This indeed is exactly what this Awareness was trying to state at the beginning of Its opening message. That many may not experience at all any of the events this Awareness has described, especially the more negative fear-inducing events. For if they have been successful in creating a timeline or time track where they are unaffected, it will be such a smooth procedure that it will be hard to see where this occurred, how this occurred, it will simply be their reality experience and, of course, this Awareness has advocated believing in the most positive way that all will be well, that one is a being of Light and of Spirit, and that being such that they create their realities as creator beings that will not experience such extreme events. What this Awareness is trying to do is to give the broadest picture available to the masses and how they may experience the unfolding of events, not how those who have managed to step into an alternate time track, timeline will experience it.

So it comes down to the Law of Thought again - whatever you energize that's what will be, is that correct?

This is correct. The pause was because it is also true that whatever you emotionally energize will be so. Therefore, it is not simply the Law of Thought but also the emotional energies that are held. The Powers That Be have long known this. It is why they have manipulated human consciousness towards fear and panic, it is why they continually reinforce this so that the emotions felt by the majority are those emotions where fear and panic upend those who have succumbed to them. It is why this Awareness states continuously: one must be vigilant of the panic and fear that the events of their lives and the events of their surroundings may cause them. It is so easy to go into this fear, especially around economic situations where it appears one will be destitute, one will lose everything, one will not be able to survive. But this is a lie, for the lie was created by those in power that it is money and economic stability that ensures survival, not one's spiritual inclination or understanding, not one's connection to Spirit or to their true multidimensional being, their true being as creators of their realities.

Thus they are asleep and they are controlled, thus it is that fear and hopelessness and negativity are the order of the day and they see their lives as such. The thoughts and feelings thus create their reality and even though this Awareness does say this clearly and directly, still it is seen that many will succumb to such fears and panic and experience a very chaotic transition.

Thank you, thank you for that. Are there going to be some medical discoveries this coming year?

There are already medical discoveries occurring, but those who are part of the Medical Mafia, as it is often described, those who are part of the planned Rockefeller-Rothschild type creation of the medical industry, may find that their answers are not acceptable to many who are seeking alternative cures, and that the costs become more and more prohibitive. Thus it is that many are denied medical treatment, especially in the richest nation of all, where many who are not adequately prosperous do not have the privilege of decent healthcare. Thus, even though there may be medical discoveries in the traditional allopathic medical systems, these discoveries may still be beyond the means of many. This is one of the things that 2012 will also start to collapse.

Indeed, 2012 will be a year of collapse on many levels – the social, economic, political levels, the medical levels, beliefs of religious nature – many, many things will be challenged, many things will collapse. The medical system will see advancements in medicine outside the parameters of allopathic medicine and many who cannot afford allopathic medical treatment will go to alternative methods, for they are at least affordable, and as more become aware of the power of alternative treatment many will see that this truly is the superior way towards healing, but again 2012 will be a year of upheaval and this includes beliefs in the medical way of things. Many simply cannot leave the medical system as it now stands, believing that what doctors say and how it is practiced, how medicine is practiced, is the only way. Thus, 2012 is not the year where it will be completely replaced, it is simply the year of collapse, where many things will longer be seen to work and many will start to ask questions and new approaches will be sought.

Very good, very good. As a sideline to everything else that is going on, will there still be entertainment in the sense of sports events or television, movies, the symphony, the opera, that type of thing, will it still carry on?

In some areas it will still carry on. In others where natural disasters have happened, where stadiums and arenas are no longer available, where theaters are collapsed, where local news stations, television stations are destroyed, there will not be entertainment. It is hard for many to conceive the degree of change that is coming, the collapse that is coming.

That which has always been traditional for so many and expected to be there from day to day will simply not be there any longer. Thus, those who support their local team and expect in 2012 that they may come back and win the Super Bowl, the Stanley Cup, the World Series, may find that their teams do not exist by the end of the season when events are so catastrophic and the collapse so extreme.

The system of travel in the world which is available now will also be restrained and constrained. It is seen, for example, international travel being greatly curtailed because of many factors, even factors of safety and availability of aircraft. That thus it will become harder to travel to other lands, even within one's own country. The petrochemical industry will also be affected and gasoline may not be as available in 2012, a similar situation as was experienced during the oil crisis of 72, 73.

There is also seen a radical response in America where martial law is declared in 2012 and that the borders to Canada and Mexico are closed and access into the country severely restricted. This state of martial law will be in order to "deal with the situation", but it will simply truly be the power Elite's way of gaining full and total control. Martial law may also indeed be introduced in other countries as well – Canada, Australia, Great Britain, the European nations, China, Australia – all the greater nations of the world may indeed need to go into states of martial law, for the collapse will be so extreme for many in those areas that there is no choice but to try to control through martial law, try to bring the power into effect that has so long been planned for, the entire and complete enslavement of humanity. This too is an agenda of 2012 by the Powers That Be, but this Awareness wishes to say that due to all other events occurring at the same time, the plan for complete enslavement of mankind will not occur in 2012. It may be that many move this forward in their timelines and time tracks to the planet B scenario, where those elitist actions of martial law for the purpose of taking complete control may be continued and indeed successfully carried out.

I understand. How about foodstuffs- with Monsanto developing seeds of not reproducing themselves, is food going to be a factor?

Food will be a factor because of the weather warfare that is taking place and the natural weather patterns that will be very destructive. It is seen that the big plan is to control the food production around the planet. Monsanto is but a part of that scenario, the creation of genetic seeds that need to be replaced through Monsanto year after year is but a part of the process of controlling the world's production of food. But what is seen to be a more serious event is the weather around the world where food is produced. In areas where food is produced flooding and droughts and other natural catastrophes, such as hurricanes and tornadoes, may well reduce food supplies. That this is and always has been part of the plans of the Elite to create a crisis in the world food supply. It is also so that many, many areas where food could be grown have been replaced by crops that are not able to nurture people – coffee, tobacco and other crops that have no nutritional merit or value are not food crops.

It is also one way that the world's food supplies have been attacked over the many years, many farmers in nations where there is a subsistence level being forced to grow crops such as coffee or cocoa or tobacco instead of food crops for their own people. Thus, when the plug is pulled, so to speak, that the peoples of those countries will be in dire situations, for where they once grew crops for the feeding of the people now they have tobacco or coffee beans. But this will change as the local economies reinsert themselves and do what is right and needed to feed the local populace. It is also seen that this is a scenario that could indeed go into planet B, where food becomes critical to the extreme and many, many die because of starvation. The events seen in Africa over the last few months will become worldwide in the times after 2012 in the planet B scenario. But those who have focused in different ways, who choose to experience a different reality, need not have this as their experience, and thus it is seen that while 2012 may be challenging and that food prices may go up in the local grocery store, that generally speaking things will still be available. There may not be available those crops from southern regions. The people in Canada, for example, may not receive their tomatoes or their oranges from Florida or California, but this will not be so serious that they are starving, they simply will not be able to have their orange juice in the morning.

I see. How about electricity and the water, that type of thing?

Again, upheaval is seen around the world due to the crashing economics and the catastrophic Earth changes in some regions. But it is seen that the reliance on geophysical energy sources such as oil will decline in 2012, and the good news is that there will start to be a movement for sustainable energy and this will move forward with time. But again, upheaval is the key for 2012, so there may indeed be more energy blackouts and even the loss of energies altogether. The availability of electricity, for example, the availability of oil and gas to power one's vehicles or run motors. These events could become very common in 2012, especially during the summer of 2012.

And the following winter then of 2012, for those in northern colder climates will find they need a couple of extra blankets, is that true?

Indeed or perhaps they come together with others who have fireplaces, so that if they did lose the availability of electricity or natural gas that they could cook over the open fire. That it is to be remembered the pioneer spirit will be rekindled and that many who had become used to electricity, to natural gas, to propane, may have to do without it. But there are other ways to cook, there are other ways to heat a space in the house. It may be that the whole house is no longer heated and only the fireplace is the primary source of heat for those cold weather months, but it will help them survive and get through. Of course, again this Awareness wishes to reiterate: these are scenarios of possibilities, these forecasts that this Awareness is making do not stand as unavoidable or that they must be so. It is simply this Awareness is speaking of possibilities at this time for some who wish to have these adventures.

Yes, this is understood. It's good to be aware of the lay of the land, of possibilities, and then people can choose what they want to experience.

This is true. What this Awareness would also say is it must be remembered that the event of Ascension December 21, 2012 will mark the shift forward one way or another. Forward for those who hold that the possibility exists that Ascension and the shift of the planet will bring a new dawn, a new way of belief and thought and perceptions of reality. A new way for those who do not believe it, that need to have the ultimate experience of physicality without spiritual involvement. It is not a new way that is a particularly brilliant way but it is a level of life experience, and as it is that Spirit always enters into physicality to have experiences good or bad, that either planet A or planet B will offer new ways to have experiences.

Indeed. Is there any additional, any topic I haven't covered that might be relevant?

That one thing this Awareness would add is that in the times ahead, despite what difficulties there are, faith is imperative, the faith and trust that things will shift, will change. That for those who are capable, that they focus only on the highest energies that they can focus on, that they focus on Light and Love as the way forward, for Light and Love will lead one first and foremost into situations that are lighter, where love is available to help sustain and guide individuals through upsetting times and periods of experiences that 2012 will bring. That the experiences that are available in 2012 are experiences of transition, of the ending of things.

But the focus must not remain on the death of this planet or of civilization or of the family or of one's nation, but rather that this is but a time of transition and change and upheaval, away from the insane asylum that has controlled the thinking on the planet for so long to a new place of belief, a new level of awareness and consciousness, one that is in alignment with one's spiritual truth and the truth that is God Almighty, that which is the Force of the Everything and the All. That God will not abandon the many that believe in the force that is the Godhead, that which is God Almighty. It will not abandon those who do not believe in It, as It is still available to all, even if all do not choose to believe in that which is the divine energy of God Almighty.

That this will be not only a year of challenge and upheaval but a year of faith and a year of miracles, as this Awareness has already said, especially as one truly begins to live the knowing of who and what they are in the Light of Spirit and the Light that is God. That further to this, God is not an intellectual concept, It is not a deity sitting on a throne wearing a crown. It is a real force that inhabits all – every cell, every atom, every organ, every being, every stone, tree, plant – all is infused with the spark of God and so it is with mankind itself.

That as creator beings, that which is the spark of the Divine very much blazes within them, and that it is a necessity now to truly begin to live this truth, this knowing. And that 2012 will be a year of discovery of this most fundamental truth: that all are aspects of the Divine, all are here to have an experience, all have chosen to be here in a time of upheaval and chaos, to move forward, either to experience Ascension and to move into planet A Ascension consciousness or to have an experience of planet B consciousness. It is still an experience, it is still part of the dream of God for all that are part of it that are having this experience.

That as more and more begin to understand this critical truth they will remove themselves from the hardships of physicality that they are experiencing, they will remove themselves from the lies they have lived their lives by, lies that are considered the norm, lies that are considered the way it is. It is only the way it is because of the acceptance of the lies one lives by, and that 2012 will start to put a light on the lies of existence that so many hold as irrefutable. They will no longer be irrefutable and as such the lies will be dropped and the truth that lies beyond the lies discovered. It is indeed also to be a year of glorious opportunity to discover the truth of what truly is, to discover the Light and the Love of that which is Divine, Spirit, that which is God Almighty.

Indeed. Is there any additional or would you like to do a closing message or shall I say the Law of Gratitude?

That this Awareness has previously given an affirmation that It has recommended that members use to help them through the dark times. That affirmation is "I am the Light, the Light I am". That this Awareness continues to recommend the use of this affirmation, especially in times of darkness and uncertainty. But that this Awareness now also introduces a new affirmation for 2012 that can be used in conjunction with the Light affirmation. That this affirmation is similar in nature: "I am Love, Love I am". That these two affirmations together will first and foremost help to dispel the darkness of those lies that many believe in, but will also begin to introduce in the affirmation "I am Love, Love I am" the love of the Divine and the rediscovering within oneself of the love for oneself for the Divine, for life itself, life illuminated and glorious, life with promise and hope. That it is these two affirmations that this Awareness recommends be used during times of doubt and crisis, to be used at times where hope is failing or that the fear is growing. That these affirmations will help many to get in touch with that which is the truth within and they will begin to be able to transcend the lies around them and move towards Ascension and reunion with the God within, the God without.

That's beautiful, thank you.

That this completes this Awareness' forecast for 2012, but that this Awareness will continue to update throughout the year when events warrant updates. This Awareness is also open to questions that may be presented to It regarding 2012, questions individuals might have as to possibilities that exist for 2012.

Very good, thank you. That was excellent. The members will be pleased.

The Law of Gratitude is that sense of satisfaction where energy which has been given receives a certain reward. Energy that is given moves out on that curved and unequal line and when extended far enough can only return to its source bearing gifts. Thank you, that was excellent.
